Invitation

Programme

The UNFCCC negotiations have so far failed to properly address the issue of adaptation technologies, crucial for communities in the South in dealing with the devastating impacts of a changing climate. CIDSE and Caritas Internationalis will hold a panel discussion with experts from the EU Expert Group on Adaptation, the Ugandan Delegation and the Nairobi Work Programme. Drawing on experiences of their partners in developing countries, CIDSE and Caritas Internationalis will present the policy recommendations of their new report 'Reducing Vulnerability, Enhancing Resilience: The importance of Adaptation Technologies for the post-2012 Climate Agreement'. Access the report online www.cidse.org

- Sol Oyuela, CAFOD Policy Analyst presents the policy recommendations of the report
- Panel discussion with experts moderated by Bernd Nilles, CIDSE Secretary General
- Question and answers
