INTRODUCING CIDSE

OUR ROLES

CIDSE drives its mission through three different roles:

- Influencer
- Connector and mobiliser
- Storyteller

These are all different ways to reach our main target groups:

International and regional decision-makers, civil society organisations, local communities and movements, and Church and faith leaders.

Global justice and solidarity - human rights - systemic change - decolonisation - civic space - climate and biodiversity - indigenous peoples and local communities - food sovereignty - feminism

OUR MISSION

Inspired by the Gospel and Catholic Social Teaching, CIDSE aims to achieve transformational change for people and the planet through the power of global solidarity. Based in Brussels, the Secretariat coordinates the joint work of teams of experts from our member organisations.

CIDSE works towards global justice through five systemic change lenses: Decolonising systems of power, Promoting human rights, Defending climate and biodiversity justice, Integrating feminism and Transforming economic and political systems.

WHAT WE DO

- Challenge systemic injustices, inequities and destruction of nature, as well as assumptions on growth, development and consumption;
- Undertake joint advocacy using an integrated approach at local, regional, and international levels;
- Engage in international solidarity and cooperation by working together with member organisations and partners to promote people-driven change worldwide.

Together with our members, we work with partners and allies in nearly 120 countries and territories worldwide.
