

Declaração dos cardeais, bispos e organizações católicas reunidos na COP30 e na Cúpula dos Povos em Belém

21 de novembro de 2025, Belém, Brasil

De 10 a 21 de novembro, lideranças mundiais, negociadores, movimentos populares e outros viajaram para Belém, no Brasil, para a COP30 e a Cúpula dos Povos. Entre eles, há uma diversidade sem precedentes de vozes da nossa Igreja — leigos, religiosas e religiosos, cardeais, bispos, clérigos, movimentos pastorais, organizações juvenis, ONGs e muitos outros — que procuraram amplificar o que o Papa Francisco, em Laudato Si', chamou de “o grito da terra e o grito dos pobres”. Comovidos com o que vivemos nesta COP, oferecemos esta declaração a todos os católicos e pessoas de boa vontade para que se juntem a nós em um compromisso e em ações renovados para cuidar de nossa casa comum.

Dez anos após o Acordo de Paris e o apelo do Papa Francisco para proteger nossa casa comum, o mundo enfrenta piores condições climáticas e degradação ambiental. A realização da COP30 no Brasil, um país onde a Igreja, os povos indígenas e os movimentos sociais há muito caminham juntos em defesa da vida, fortaleceu ainda mais a esperança sentida por toda a comunidade católica.

Meses antes da COP30, católicos começaram a expressar suas esperanças, preocupações e orações relacionadas a esta importante conferência. Em 12 de junho, as Conferências Episcopais Católicas da Ásia, África, América Latina e Caribe publicaram uma declaração conjunta intitulada Um Apelo à Justiça Climática e à Casa Comum, um forte apelo por ações concretas e corajosas daqueles mais afetados pela crise climática. Da mesma forma, movimentos e organizações católicas dialogaram entre si, compartilhando perspectivas e apoiando-se mutuamente.

Católicos chegaram à COP30 para descobrir um espírito de verdadeira sinodalidade, caminhando juntos, unidos no amor de Deus pelos pobres e pela criação. Compartilhando nosso tempo em refeições, painéis de conferências, advocacy, a Cúpula dos Povos, missas e uma procissão da Virgem de Nazaré, encontramos uma Igreja pronta para se manifestar ao lado das pessoas e do planeta. Partimos com uma esperança renovada, fortalecidos pelo testemunho da Igreja e pela graça que experimentamos juntos.

Em Laudato Si', o Papa Francisco, enfrentando corajosamente a realidade das mudanças climáticas, pediu uma “conversão ecológica”. O Papa Leão XIV, em uma mensagem aos reunidos para a COP30, desejou que “todos os participantes da COP30, bem como aqueles que acompanham seu trabalho ativamente, sejam inspirados a abraçar com coragem esta conversão ecológica em pensamentos e ações, tendo em mente o rosto humano da crise climática”.

À medida que continuamos esta jornada de conversão ecológica, pedimos à graça de cuidar mais ternamente a criação, de caminhar com mais profunda solidariedade uns com os outros e de crescer na coragem necessária para responder fielmente aos desafios urgentes do nosso tempo, os quais afetam todos, mas especialmente as mulheres, os jovens, os migrantes, os povos indígenas e os mais marginalizados. Como o Papa Leão acaba de nos lembrar: “Caminhamos junto com cientistas, lideranças e pastores de todas as nações e credos. Somos guardiões da criação, não rivais por seus bens.”
